SCOPE OF THE SEMINAR/CONFERENCE

Education is a vital investment for human and economic development and the progress of a nation depends on education. It is education that stimulates the quality of human capital on which depend the successful use of available natural resources and monetary capital of a country. The demand of twenty first century is novelty, creativity, and integration of knowledge at global level, research, critical and analytical thoughts. This international seminar offers a timely and invaluable opportunity to engage with the challenges underpinning idleness of youth and analyze the ways in which educational institutions, policy makers; various organizations can support young people in reaching their full potential and enabling them as productive citizen. This research seminar will open the new horizons in the field of education and development that will help to align the education systems and curriculum at higher level with national educational policies to enable our educated youth as dynamic individuals in a shortest possible span of time. This event will provide a platform for academic administrators, policy makers, curriculum developers, teachers and students to share their knowledge and experiences regarding making important reforms in this regard.
