BACKGROUND

In all the movements made for the improvement and awareness of the people during the adversity faced by Muslims, education has always been the focal point in all ages. The reality was distilled in the minds of the Muslim world that restoration of Muslim glory and regaining their old supremacy lie in getting modern and advanced education to keep up with the modern world.

Educational movements like the Darul Aloom Deoband, the Ali Garh Muslim University, all India Muslim Educational Conference, the Nadwa-tul-Ulma, Anjuman Hamayat-e-Islam Lahore, Jamia Millia Delhi etc. which later changed into freedom movements are worth mentioning for their sincere efforts aimed at promoting education among the Muslims of the sub-continent.

The above mentioned movements of educational enlightenment started with varied, diverse and idiosyncratic thoughts and concepts of Muslim thinkers about education, like Maulana Muhammad Qasim Nanutwi, Sir Syed Ahmed Khan, Maulana Shibli Naumani, Allama Iqbal, Syed Suleiman Nadwi, Dr. Zakar Hussain, Sahibzada Abdul Qayyum, Hassan Ali Afendi, Maulana Deeen Muhammad Wafai and other Muslims thinkers. The purpose of all these educational movements was to end Muslims' misery, to eliminate their economic backwardness, to end social chaos and to raise the consciousness of common Muslims so that they become able to live a purposeful life. Some of these educational institutions were established specifically for religious education whereas the Aligarh Muslim University, the Islamia College Peshawar, the educational institutions of Anjuman Himayat-e-Islam and the Jamia Millia etc..., were established for the teaching of modern sciences.

During the colonial period in the subcontinent, it was strongly realized that there was essential need to establish such institutions where Muslims can study modern scientific, economic, social and artistic sciences in combination with the study of the Qura'n and the Hadith, and study both in the light of the concepts, research and observations of Muslim educationists. And these institutions should be attached to such a system of training and education where the students can be trained in the light of Islamic creed and civilization. In this connection, scores of educational conferences seminars and advisory councils were held in the Islamic world in which the experts exchanged views for the achievement of the above mentioned goals; plans were presented and the gist of their thoughts was compiled. The post colonial world has experienced a unique phenomenon during the past decades. An Islamic re-awakening has taken place in the Muslim world. As part of this phenomenon several international conferences, symposia, workshops and conventions were held in the past to deliberate on issues related to Islamic education. Most of these activities were organized by Muslims while an equally large number were sponsored by our non-Muslim friends interested in understanding this remarkable new happening. The international conferences held on the subject underscored the need for integration of modern education with Islamic values and knowledge. It was in view of this need, and the recommendations of these assemblies of Muslim scholars, that in 1980 the Islamic University was established in Islamabad which was upgraded as an International Islamic University in 1985. Beside other routine educational functions, one of the most vital was to develop an applied approach in the study of Islamic disciplines. That is the International Islamic University Islamabad. It encourages its students and teachers to take up projects that may help them develop viable Islamic solutions for contemporary economic, social, political, moral and cultural problems.

The International Islamic University is a unique institution of higher learning, which integrates the two parallel streams of religious and other education systems prevailing in the Muslim world. It provides a system based on universal Islamic principles capable of responding to present day needs and requirements.

OBJECTIVES

The primary aims and objectives of the International Islamic University as contemplated in the provisions of the university Ordinance and Statutes are: -

- To provide for all-round and harmonious development of individuals and society,
- To reconstruct human thought in all its forms on the foundation of Islam,
- To develop Islamic character and personality among the students, teachers and the supporting staff in the university,
- To encourage and promote education, training and research in Islamic learning, social, natural, applied and communication sciences, and other branches of knowledge,
- To take practical steps for the ideological, moral, intellectual, economic and technological development through ideas and principles in accordance with the norms of Islam and to take necessary steps for developing practical solutions of contemporary problems.

The university is open to all without any discrimination on the basis of caste, creed, colour, race, religion or gender.

FACULTY OF ARABIC

Dr. Hafiz Muhammad Bashir
Dean Faculty of Arabic

ABOUT FACULTY OF ARABIC

The great importance attached to the Faculty, becomes clear from the above mentioned. This importance emerges from the increasing interest showed by Pakistan in Arabic; the distinctive status of IIUI amongst the Pakistani Universities for it makes Arabic fundamental ingredients in its academic programmes. This importance is augmented by the satisfactory programmes of the faculty, the courses that it offers and the academic & research load placed on it, as these courses resemble the programmes offered by the faculties and departments of Arabic Language in the renowned Universities of the Arab world such as Al-Azhar and Cairo Universities.

Dr. Ahmad Yousif Al-Draiweesh addressing the seminar titled “Translation, Its fields and Importance organized by Faculty of Arabic

THE PREDETERMINED OBJECTIVES OF THE FACULTY ARE:

And after 6 months of its Beginning University was requested to start courses on Sundays. This request came from the professionals that they can join these courses on Holiday rather than their hectic working days. Many people from many organizations like PTCL, Police, Banks, Universities, PTA, Pak Army, and Doctors, Engineers, burocrates, house wives and students had benefited from this opportunity since February 2009. Arabic Language Center eagerly tried to get the feedback from the people in order to improve its courses to give the people more benefit from these courses. After it was offered Arabic Language Courses in two disciplines i.e. Quranic Arabic and Spoken Arabic the Center concluded that a comprehensive Syllabus may be introduced to make the students enable that they can understand Quran directly and to have expression power through speaking. ## FACULTY OF LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE

Dr. Munawar Iqbal Gondal
Acting Dean
Faculty of Language & Literature

Dean FLL Dr. Munawar Iqbal Gondal expressing views in a 3 day workshop on “Developing Higher Order Thinking Skills organized by Dept. of English, FLL

ABOUT FLL

The Department of English Literature which started its journey way back in 1996 has by now come a long way. A goal, which to many, might have appeared a very ambitious one in the beginning, has been achieved by the indefatigable and unwavering spirits of all the faculty members, who have been toiling extremely hard to achieve what was envisaged by the founding members.

The department offers a rare amalgam of east and west, a phenomenon whose parallel can hardly be found anywhere in the country. Subjects like Islam and Modern Western Thought, help the students to strike a harmonious balance in their thinking patterns, interestingly English literature and language, instead of weaning them away from their faith, as it is conventionally believed, help them to anchor and cement their beliefs in the universal aspects of life. Directing the youthful flamboyance of the students towards achieving something meaningful and productive has remained the hallmark of the department. The department prides itself in cultivating self belief and unflagging desire to march ahead. Grooming the creative abilities of the students has always figured as the top priorities of the department, this amounts to infusion of fresh blood in the ailing veins of our education system, which thrives on traditional methods.

Objectives

- (i) To cater to the needs of students and promote their functional capabilities, using linguistic tools and literary material.
- (ii) To provide a balanced academic development of students
- (iii) To promote the general objectives of the University i.e. to create better personalities.

Schools in Pakistan are categorized under two headings; Public and Private schools. The ever increasing population brings about a dire need for educational institutions. The public sector schools are being overcrowded and a majority lacking resources, the population resorts to private schooling for their children. The giants in the field (Networks) provide quality education but at a cost that all cannot afford. In addition focus on modernization and inculcating western values causes apprehensions in parents as they admit their future generations in available private education providers. Parents strongly feel the lack of a strong value base but desire the best available education in terms of quality. 'IIUI Schools' offer international standard systems entrenched within a strong value base makes it the first choice of parents, investors and Teachers.

HIGHER EDUCATION & QUALITY ASSURANCE

Higher education is very essential for active participation in the knowledge societies which in turn accelerates economic growth. Quality education is a prerequisite to gain access to knowledge which guarantees economic development. This makes the condition of higher education in Pakistan a very critical issue. Recognizing this, the Higher Education Commission is committed to quality assurance and enhancement of higher education institutions. To achieve world class standards, quality assessment and continuous improvement are the necessary ingredients. This includes the accreditation of academic programmes and quality assessment of the university / institution. The university quality assessment is primarily concerned with the institutional issues rather than academic programmes issues.

The development of Quality Assurance is a continuous process and therefore, continuity of strategies, actions and efforts is a prerequisite for quality in higher education. Quality Assurance including its processes, procedures and outcomes of assessment is a challenge and its management is even a greater challenge to practitioners seeking workable guidelines, evidences of good practices and tools that will facilitate the process

Higher Education Commission (HEC) was established by Government of Pakistan by Act of Parliament in 2002. It was established as a regulatory body of Federal Government of Pakistan for all public and private sector universities. Annual Funding of all public sector universities was provided to Higher Education Commission (HEC) for onward distribution among universities. Various other tasks like curriculum planning & development, Research promotion in Pakistan, uniform criteria for faculty member's appointment in all universities etc were given to HEC.

A Quality Assurance Agency (QAA) was established in 2004 under umbrella of the HEC as a specialized body to introduce and encourage the development of a quality culture in higher education. As a special feature of QA programme of the Pakistan higher education system, the HEC also established Quality Enhancement Cells (QECs) in all public sector universities in a phased manner. Quality Enhancement Cell was established in IIU in Feb 2010 under the guidance of Higher Education Commission (HEC) Islamabad in its 3rd Phase for improving quality of education.
